

Library Catalog Search

Start at is.gd/gcclib, a shortcut to lib.gccaz.edu/lmc.

Which of these options describes what you need?:

1. If you want as many results as possible in as many formats as possible, enter your search terms in the One Search box to find books, ebooks, database articles, DVDs, streaming videos, and CDs.

2. Want to limit your search to a topic category? Pull down the What are you researching? list on the lower right side and select a category to search for books, ebooks, database articles, DVDs, or streaming videos focused on that topic.

3. Just want to find a book in the library to check out? Select the Find Books tab.

GCC Physical Books is the default search.

Use the pull-down menu to limit your search to a title, author, subject, or a focused search, which searches key fields in a book's record.

Notice the Signature Collections links on the right side of the Find Books search box that will limit your search results to pro/con books, reference books, the leisure reading collection, the Literacy Library, children's books, etc.

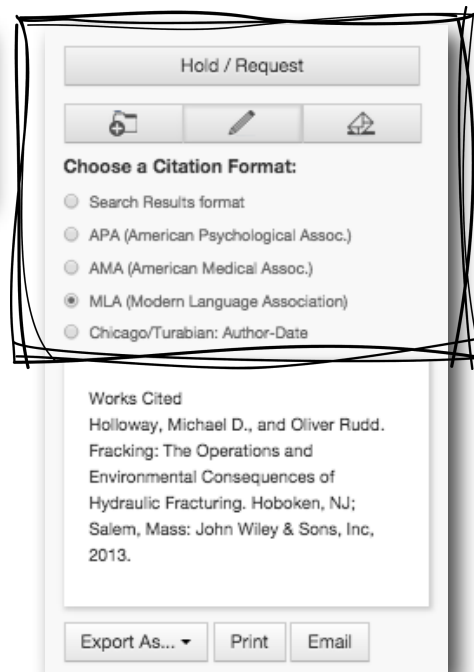

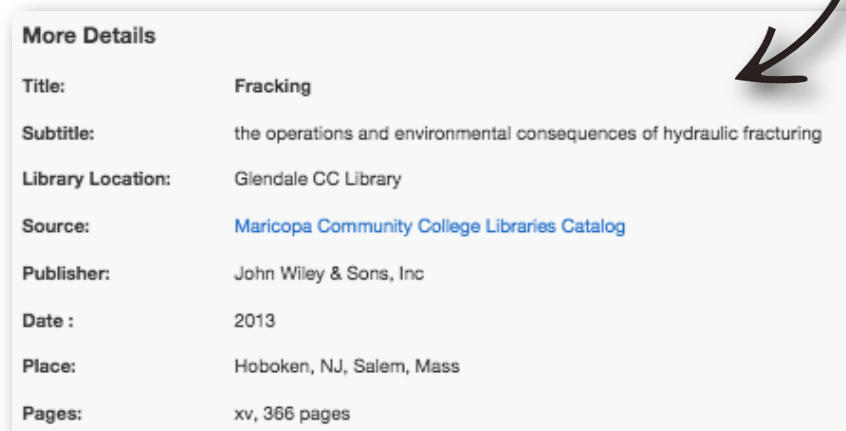

Your search automatically is limited to available items in the GCC libraries. Use the limiters on your search results page to customize the results so you have fewer records. For example, specify a range of publication dates using the date slider; click to see books on the shelves at the GCC campus where you're located; limit the results to specific subject headings, etc.

Jot down the location of the item (such as GENERAL, REF, PRO/CON, etc.), its call number, and make sure the item isn't checked out (this is stated before the call number) and then head to the shelf.

Click a title in the results list to see the full item record, which includes the number of pages. Sometimes the table of contents, a summary, and/or book reviews will be included.

Use the buttons in the upper right corner to place a hold, to put the item in a temporary folder you can return to as you find other items, or to email the record. Click the pencil button for a citation in your choice of formats that you can save, print, or email. Be sure it's formatted to your instructor's specifications.
